If the Scottish Parliamentary elections in May returns a pro-independence majority, Scotland could begin a "unilateral declaration of independence" (UDI), which is a formal process leading to the establishment of a new independent state by a subnational entity (in this case, Scotland) which declares itself independent and sovereign without a formal agreement with the state from which it is seceding (in this case, the United Kingdom). A motion on UDI was defeated at the SNP conference and is not thought to have the backing of the first minister, Nicola Sturgeon. However, it is the closest thing to a suggested strategy for independence put forward by Alex Salmond's Alba Party. Q39. A new pro-independence party, the Alba Party, has been launched in Scotland, and it is running candidates on the regional list in Scotland at the upcoming Scottish Parliamentary elections. The party aims to win seats in the regional list, where the SNP does not win many due to how well it does in the constituency vote, to allow there to be more pro-independence MSPs in Holyrood. You said that you would vote SNP with your regional list vote. How likely or unlikely do you think you'll be to vote instead for the Alba Party with your second, regional list vote at the Holyrood elections in May?

Q43. If the Scottish Parliamentary elections in May returns a pro-independence majority, Scotland could begin a "unilateral declaration of independence" (UDI), which is a formal process leading to the establishment of a new independent state by a subnational entity (in this case, Scotland) which declares itself independent and sovereign without a formal agreement with the state from which it is seceding (in this case, the United Kingdom). A motion on UDI was defeated at the SNP conference and is not thought to have the backing of the first minister, Nicola Sturgeon. However, it is the closest thing to a suggested strategy for independence put forward by Alex Salmond's Alba Party. To what extent do you support or oppose Scotland beginning the Universal Declaration of Independence process if the May elections return a pro-independence majority?
